19th Sunday In Ordinary Time

August 13, 2017

Dear parishioners,

I am listening to a set of tapes about St. Clare of Assisi. She was the eldest daughter of the wealthiest family in Assisi. Her father was looking to marry her off in a way that would gain for him and for her great wealth and status. Clare wanted to follow the poor Christ in the way of St. Francis.

Clare has a good friend in Agnes of Prague who was three times promised in marriage. Her third proposal would have made her the queen of the Holy Roman Empire. Agnes wanted no part of it. She was drawn to the same life to which Clare was drawn even though they lived far from each other.

Both Clare and Agnes gave away everything they had and gave it to the poor. Bishops, cardinals, and even the pope tried to discourage their choice and insisted their convents have endowments. Both resisted for their whole lives, and both conceded to live a cloistered life but would not budge on their choice to live poverty.

On the other hand, we just were given a CARA report that points out there were 180,000 sisters in 1965; 115,000 in 1985; 51,000 in 2014. Extrapolating that data they are predicting in 2021 there will be fewer sisters than priests. That makes my heart sad, and I wonder what has caused us to have so little interest in knowing and following Jesus in such a bold way as did Clare and Agnes. It also makes me realize that the laity will need seriously to be educated in theology and step up to take leadership.

There's the challenge! What will each of us do personally to be of service to God's holy Church?

Sister Carol
